SYNOPSIS

Mr Tay will talk about his new work in the region to illustrate some radically new ideas. These include a shift away from the aesthetics of industrial modernism which in Singapore is celebrated despite that it is obsolete. The world is moving into a different phase. While manufactured objects are available, to celebrate them is over as the world struggles to enter a new biological age addressing cultural, social and environmental justice for all people and living things not just 20% of the world and not just planter-box aesthetics either.

SPEAKER'S PROFILE

Mr Tay Kheng Soon

Mr Tay is a SIA Past President, Adjunct Professor at NUS, Fellow of World Academy of Art and Science, member of Asia Dialogue Society recipient of PLEA award and Spectrum Foundation of India's award for lifetime contribution to architecture.
