SYNOPSIS

A tiling finish is a system comprising no less than substrate, bedding, ceramic tiles (or stone veneers), grout and movement joints. All components are equally important and related to one another. Adequate compatibility must exist among the components as they could only function collectively. The system could only be as strong as the weakest component.

Talk will cover :

- i) Different Types of Adhesives Available & Used in Tile & Stone Work
- ii) Physical properties & how to select appropriately for the installation
- iii) Classification in accordance to Standards:

Performance criteria for each type - Refer to Standards of BS EN 12004 (European Norm) and ISO 13007-1: Fundamental Characteristics and Special Additional Characteristics of Deformable Adhesives, Fast-setting adhesives etc.

- iv) Common Errors
- v) Complaints & How to Avoid It

We will review common complaints and discuss on how some of these complaints can be avoided eg., Adhesive's Open Time, Substrate condition & preparation, Shelter & Protection from Direct Sunlight and Rain for Outdoor Applications and Swimming Pool etc.

In summary, this technical talk will increase the awareness on the understanding of the different performance levels of adhesives for various applications and selecting the right adhesive with due consideration to budget and performance.
