

domestiCity

A home. The abode that one returns to. The private space that only allows for the owner and his family. Happiness comes from the home, they say. And in this tour of DomestiCity, we look at the homes that have been fastidiously designed, to cater to every need of the owner, for his being, for his happiness. Designer homes are now on the rise as people begin to appreciate the need for tailored domiciles; from sky-rise apartments to terrace houses to bungalows, we see how the spaces are crafted to suit the needs and lifestyle of the homeowners. DomestiCity will present the quintessence of Singapore's modern housing, in the form of beautiful living spaces.

Law is one of the pillars of a maintained city and education ensures the passing on of important information to the younger generation. In this tour, we look at how the various types of buildings support the law and educational institutions in Singapore. Some buildings that used to witness important events concerning the passing of laws and policy-making processes have now taken a more subdued function. As these buildings remain a part of our urban landscape, poised with dignity and we look at how they have been revitalized to ensure they remain a relevant part of our community. IntricaCity will lead you to think about the making of Singapore to become a Happy City.

The cross into the 21st century saw a pivotal emphasis on Science and Technology. This drives our economy, homes, industries and even maintains our health. It is then unsurprising to see how buildings related to this field are now becoming more well-designed, as opposed to its more utilitarian predecessors. ComplexCity will bring you to facilities supporting the Science development in Singapore that have delighted and surprised their occupants in their own way. From the beautiful façade to the intelligent use of natural light and materials, this tour is sure to enlighten you with its brilliantly designed architecture.
