SYNOPSIS

In most of the Asian Region the emulsion industry and their products are well known and wide spread. Their products also have been adjusted generally to the common requirements and demands from clients and customers.

As for mineral silicate paints which are well known all over Europe, the US, Taiwan, China, Middle East and also Australia we would like to introduce this kind of paint and coating system to the Singaporean Architects.

We would like to inform them about its History, its manufacturing process, its application and its advantages and disadvantages.

We would like to create a possible alternative to the existing common products in the local market. Expanding the possibilities of choices within the paint and coating products.

Singapore is emphasising on green products, environmental friendly products and on creating sustainability for buildings. Therefore programs as the Green Marks Scheme were installed and are actively used by the Singaporean Architects.

The mineral silicate paints and coatings are also suitable products to meet the above mentioned expectations, requirements and needs
