

SIA Event:

The G-Architect (Green Architect)

Synopsis:

The SIA-Uniseal G-Architect Award is an honour that is bestowed annually on an Asian architect (G-Architect: Green Architect). And the award recognises an architect (G-Architect) for his/her contribution to sustainable architecture.

A G-Architect is an individual who, through the nominee's body of as-built and/or theoretical projects of varied scale-ability, advance and advocate the theory and design practice of sustainable architecture.

The nominee's designs display integration between the natural and man-made systems, and craft and technology. In addition, the nominee's designs celebrate sustainable architecture and environmental performance.

The Laureate of the inaugural award will present his concepts and philosophies in his design practice of sustainable architecture.
